PERSONALIZE HERE

You've just accepted a transfer to the branch office in London. You'd like to start wintering in Australia. You want to retire to Bali. If you want to buy property in a foreign land, but need help navigating the complexities of a cross-cultural real estate transaction, you'll want to engage a Certified International Property Specialist (CIPS) to ease the transition for you.

The CIPS Network is a worldwide alliance of international relocation specialists from nearly 50 countries, with resources in almost 100 global markets, dedicated to the transfer of real property between parties worldwide. Translating your desires. Balancing cultural norms. Determining true value. Addressing all legalities. Interpreting monetary fluctuations. Finding tax solutions. Working for you.

Isn't that just what you need?
