Risk Reduction: International Business Factors Affecting Your Local Markets

Designed for real estate professionals who have international clients and customers who buy or sell real estate in the U.S., this program trains agents and brokers on legal issues such as the Patriot Act, interstate commerce laws, reporting and withholding requirements, and more. Help your members avoid risk and take advantage of expanding international business opportunities and to understand how U.S. regulations impact real estate transactions locally. This course is perfect for an education session at your company meeting, or for a revenue generator at your local Association of REALTORS®. Because of the strength of the course materials and the facilitator guide, this course can be taught by any of your best instructors or NAR can recommend qualified instructors in your area. This program is designed for up to three hours of continuing education credit or can be delivered in smaller segments to meet the needs of your audience. This training kit (for a one-time fee only) includes:

- Comprehensive, easy-to-use Facilitator Guide
- Participant Guide on CD-ROM
- PowerPoint presentation on CD-ROM
- Timed Outline
