INTERNATIONAL REAL ESTATE TRANSACTION DETAILS

What does an international transaction mean? Have you sold a home in your local market to an immigrant? Have you leased a commercial property to a foreign investor in your local market? Have you assisted one of your local clients with the purchase of a second home in another country? All of these qualify as international transactions – if any element (client, funds, property) is international, it counts. Email tthomas@realtors.org if you have any questions on what qualifies as “international”.

*Note: The information and required documentation about the three closed international real estate transactions you submit are absolutely confidential. You may mask identity or other proprietary information as long as you can verify that you were involved and that the transaction involved an international element. No clients will ever be contacted without your permission. The transactions must be from three different clients and cannot be your own personal transactions.
